Bank of Ireland supports Eddie Stobart Logistics plc's return to the London stock market

Bank of Ireland's Business Services team has led a group of four banks, to provide a five year debt facility, supporting the floatation of Eddie Stobart Logistics plc on the London Stock Exchange's junior AIM market.

Eddie Stobart Logistics plc is one of the leading providers of transport and distribution logistics and warehousing services in the UK. The business has been transformed over the last 3 years as Management have invested to drive growth in new business sectors, supported by the company's extensive distribution network and logistics expertise.

Commenting on the transaction, Joanna Madden said 'Bank of Ireland is delighted to support Eddie Stobart Logistics with their next exciting phase of growth. The business is synonymous with high quality and service and we look forward to developing a deep relationship with the company for many years to come'.

Alex Laffey, CEO, Eddie Stobart was delighted with the efficiency and support from the Bank of Ireland team, saying 'We were working to a very demanding timetable and Bank of Ireland fully exceeded our expectations. Given our growth in the past two or three years, we think the timing is right to become a public company. It also allows us to pay down debt and provides a much stronger financial platform for us to grow the business, whether that's organically or through selective acquisitions'.
